Commissioners Count the Vote

The Fulton County Board of Election Commissioners, composed of J. T. Seat, F. U. Harris and Bailey Huddleston, met Friday at the court house in this city and made an official count and tabulation of the vote cast in last Tuesday's election. This count made no material change in the standing of the candidates, as given in the Courier last week. Some of them did gain one or two votes, but this failed to effect the result.

Many ballots were rejected by the election officers, because the voters stamped under both the Republican and Band Wagon devices. Of course this killed the votes thus stamped.

The total number of votes cast in Fulton county was 19,531.

The following is the vote received by each candidate:

For Railroad Commissioner:
L. B. Finn (D) 1262
John P. Haswell (R) 237.

Circuit Judge:

J. H. Saunders (Ind.) 360.

County Attorney:

Among Mine Own By William D. Nesbit

"And he said unto him, Say now unto her . . . Wouldst thou be spoken for to the king, or to the captain of the host? And she answered, I dwell among mine own people."—II. Kings iv., 13

"Among mine own!" This Shunammite knew all of rich content; She knew that through the day and night The roads forever went; That they led to the city wall Where merriment and moan Were mingled in their rise and fall— She stayed among her own.

The many roads that lead away Stretch far and fair to see. On some the pipe and tabor play And ring with revelry; Down one the glow of glory waits For him who fain would roam The many roads that hold our fates— They also lead us home.

The roads that tempt the wand'ring feet Lead on through scenes that change; Lead on to where we long to meet One face that is not strange; Perchance they skirt the desert sand Or meet the flying foam— But lead to whatsoever land, They also lead us home.

The Shunammite—'twas hers to go Where jewels flashed as fire Amidst the "brodered garments" glow. Yet she had her desire. The subtle harmonies that blent In cadence round the throne Dimmed in the carol of content She heard among her own.

"Among mine own!" Where friendly eyes And friendly hands are mine; Where humble songs of pleasure rise And there are bud and vine, And honey bees to search the sweets Upon the breezes blown— There, satisfied, the heart repeats The croon, "Among mine own!"

ENTERTAINED.

One of the most delightful social functions of the season was given at the palatial home of Mrs. J. C. Brann on Carr street last Friday evening in honor of her charming guest, Miss Bettie DeBow, of Hickman.

The entertainment consisted of a delightful musical program by Miss Helen Caldwell, Robert Caldwell and Frank Carr, after which a delightful course of dainty refreshments were served.

Participating were Misses Helen Caldwell, Eunice Meacham, Lillian Fields, Marianna Cox and Messrs. Robert Caldwell, Ed Paschall, N. G. Cooke, Frank Carr and Clint Sellers. —Fulton Commercial.

Lexington has been chosen as the place for the mid-winter business meeting of the Kentucky Press Association. The date of the meeting fixed for December 28 and 29.

Perfection

G. E. Hicks, age 70 years, of the Crutchfield neighborhood, was struck by a train in the I. C. yards at Fulton, Friday, and considerably bruised up but not seriously. Mr. Hicks was in a wagon with a load of provisions and as he is blind in one eye, he did not see the backing train as it approached.

These women are only a few of thousands of living witnesses of the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases. Not one of these women ever received compensation in any form for the use of their names in this advertisement—but are willing that we should refer to them because of the good they may do other suffering women to prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a reliable and honest medicine, and that the statements made in our advertisements regarding its merit are the truth and nothing but the truth.

A Talk on Drug Store Purchases

PROBABLY there is no class of merchandise on which you must depend so much on the integrity and business honor of a store as when buying Drug Store Goods. Few of us have the opportunity to become competent judges of the real value of the majority of the things sold in a Drug Store, and misrepresentation is easy, and alas, not infrequent. Here you buy with a comforting assurance that the goods are just what the label says. We do business on strictly business principles which will certainly appeal to you.

HELM & ELLISON

The Busy Store

LOOKS LIKE BUSINESS.

It seems, from all reports, that the Dyersburg Northern Railroad Co., operating between Dyersburg and Tip-topville, Tenn., means business in the matter of extending its lines. They are not only figuring on building to Hickman, but also to Memphis, according to latest advices.

A special from Nashville, Monday, says: Secretary of State Goodloe today granted the Dyersburg Northern Railroad Company, Dyer county, an amended charter granting power to extend the line to Shelby county and changing the name to Chicago, Memphis and Gulf railroad and increasing the capital from $400,000 to $1,000,000. As heretofore stated in these columns, this thing of continually building new railroads into Hickman on paper finally becomes a shade monotonous. Not only have we been disappointed in these matters but a number of our business men have, time and again, listened to the details of some promoter's empty dream, subscribed stock, boosted, etc., only to find his "sweetness wasted on the desert air."

It is true that the situation has changed into a more favorable aspect as regards this company. And the old adage, "where there is so much smoke there must be fire," may be true in this case. We hope it is.

It is needless to again thresh out the facts concerning the benefits to be derived by the new road's coming to Hickman. Suffice to say that Hickman needs the road—and the road needs Hickman.

DIED AT OAKTON.

George, the 17-year-old son of Vess Kelly, residing in the upper bottoms, 8 miles from town, died at Oakton, Ky., Friday after an illness of five weeks. Young Kelly was attending school at that place when taken ill.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Rice, of Clinton, after which the remains were buried at Greenwood.

George was recently converted and joined the Baptist church. He is survived by his parents and a brother, Tom Kelly, of Bardwell, and a sister, Miss Daisy.

—O—

FULTON'S CITY ELECTION.

The hottest municipal election at Fulton in years was held Tuesday. Col. J. F. Fall, for mayor, having no opposition, received a solid vote. In the police judge's race, Henry Taylor Democrat, defeated Ed Thomas, Independent. There were four candidates in the race for chief of police, and T. F. Linton won out by a small majority, over Lee Carter, L. E. Robertson and John St. John.

The following councilmen were winners in the race: W. W. Meadows, L. T. Callahan, C. H. Bransford, C. W. Fowler, W. K. Hall and L. S. Phillips.

—O—

The Question Whither.

When we have thrown off this old suit,
So much in need of mending,
To sink among the naked multitude,
Is that, think you, our ending?
We follow many, more we lead,
And you who sadly turn us,
Believe not that all living seed
Must flower above the surface.

Sensation is a gracious gift,
But were it cramped to station,
The prayer to have it cast adrift
Would sprout from all sensation.
Enough if we have winked to sun,
Have sped the plow a season;
There is a soul for labor done,
Endureth fixed as reason.

Then let our trust be firm in Good,
Though we be of the fasting;
Our questions are a mortal brood,
Our Work is everlasting.
We children of Beneficence
Are in its being sharers;
And Whither vainer sounds than Whence,
For word with such wayfarers.
—George Meredith.

Mosses.

Beside the woodland brook,
Deep in the ferny fringes,
There is an ancient sylvan book
With silver clasp and hinges.

On pages gray and stained,
By wind and weather smitten,
Through years the records have remained
As fresh as when first written.

Green are the lyric themes
Upon the granite pages,
Repeating the delights and dreams
Of many bygone ages.

Ah, wonder-poet Time,
Your happy child the brook is;
She turns to music every rhyme,
And hers this precious book is!
—Frank Dempster Sherman in New York Sun.

Here and Now.

Oh, nights have been and nights will be,
The moon will shed her silver light,
But there is just one night for me—This night!
Oh, buds have blown, and buds will blow,
'Tis wondrous how a flower grows;
For me there's just one rose, helighe—
This rose!

Oh, lips have met, and lips will meet,
In ecstasies of burning bliss;
There is a kiss for me most sweet—This kiss!

We have for sale in West Hickman near Metheny's store, a fine piece of residence property. Owner has good reasons for selling. It will take $1,800 to trade. Property cost more than this. Well improved and will bear close inspection. Part time.—Hickman Courier Realty Co.

The Optimist's Corner

Daily Helps to Health and Happiness

By GEORGE F. BUTLER, A. M., M. D.

During the first six or seven years of a child's life special attention should be given to its physical training rather than the intellect. After this period, if the physical constitution is good, the education of both should receive attention. Up to six or seven years of age children should be left like little lambs, to roam around the house, and in the yard, in the buoyancy of their spirits, skipping and jumping, free from care and trouble. Parents should not educate from books. Children generally will be inquisitive to learn things of nature. They will ask questions with regard to things they see and hear, and parents should improve the opportunity to instruct and patiently answer those little inquiries. They can in this manner get the advantage of the enemy, and fortify the minds of their children by sowing good seeds in their hearts, leaving no room for the bad to take root. The mother's loving instruction at a tender age is what is needed by children in formation of character.

If you have several little children in your home, give each one a place in which to keep its own toys. Make it a rule that each child should help the other, and help each other to pick up the toys, books, or games, and put the house in order before it is time for the evening meal.

"Meadow-Brook Farm" which is W. F. Mann's new offering, is a play peculiarly and provincially of a New England type, and is bound to outlive many more pretentious dramas. It portrays truly the character of the yankee and it pictures scenes of culminating interest in a New England settlement, but this is merely a narrow view of the play, as it is one that contains intense interest which appeals to the heart of a constituency that perhaps never saw New England "Uncle Si Holden," "Tim Slocum," and "Sim Smith," the town constable and Justice of the Peace and their intimates are mere repetitions of boyhood's associates, which will cause almost any city man to swear to an affidavit that he has been carried back to the time of his youth. Lou Streeter has been especially engaged to create the part of "Si Holden" in "Meadow-Brook Farm" which will be seen at the Lyric Theatre, next Wednesday evening, Nov. 17.

It is to be hoped that the new city dads will push the concrete walk building as started by the old council. Also, without fear or favor. No town ever had too many good walks. Some folks will kick like a bay steer when they are forced to put them in, but they soon forget the cost and appreciate the improvement.

May Flowers

By FRANK H. SWEET

"Butterflies, rainbow and tinsel, with thought only for the present moment, pleasure to the eye and senses," murmured Miss Ratcliffe, more to herself than to the professor. There was no envy in her voice, no sarcasm, only just philosophic speculation with perhaps a little wonder. And in her eyes was the same expression as when analyzing a new bug.

The professor regarded her admiringly, respectfully. There was much the same look of impersonal wisdom in their eyes, and much the same network of fine, studious wrinkles gathering along the base of their brows. They had delved into the depths of knowledge beyond self, and were now exploring for exploration's sake. And both were comparatively young, with untaxed strength and untried fields ahead.

But as the professor's gaze followed hers through the window to the butterflies and tinsel, there was an unusual wistfulness in his eyes. Miss Ratcliffe's profile was Grecian, without flaw. The professor never felt any scholastic diffidence in her presence, but was always calm and self-contained, as when immersed in his studies. But as his gaze followed her's out to the gayly-dressed girls swinging about the May pole, something very like longing showed in his eyes.

"They are very happy," he said; "very happy, and joyous, and bright-colored."

"Yes, very happy," assented Miss Ratcliffe, "and very joyous and bright-colored, like butterflies. But they are young ladies now, and Miss Charlton is 20, I believe. The butterflies are irresponsible, however, and meaningless joy is their mission. But some of them have unusual ability, as Miss Charlton; and precious time is consumed in arranging tableaux and romping and swinging around a pole like that."

"Miss Charlton has been the mainstay of her home, I understand," said the professor, gently; "and I am told she earned the money to come here herself, by working in a factory."

"Yes," regretfully, "she is a girl of much force of character. That is why I deplore the scene out there. Life is not long enough to learn all that every one ought to know, and with Miss Charlton's abilities the idle hours could be made to yield a vast store of knowledge for either personal satisfaction or an extra means toward a livelihood."

"Sometimes I have felt lately that our lives may have lacked some of this color and idleness, and—fun," the voice was still gentle. "Of course we could not change our lives, even should we desire; but I—I think a little color added might make us happier."

"I have not felt that way at all," returned Miss Ratcliffe, thoughtfully. "Moreover, I feel that, as head of the school, Prof. West, you ought to go out and speak to the girls. They all have a strange liking for you, and would listen to no one else. It is a crucial time in their lives, and no better opportunity could be had than to advise them now, while they are dancing and singing around the pole, covered with their May flowers. Really, it is a duty with you, professor."

Prof. West rose reluctantly, an unmistakable color now in his face.

"Well, if you really think so, Miss Ratcliffe," he said, "I—I—of course the school comes first."

As he crossed the lawn, the whirling girls paused for a moment to catch their breath. Then they caught sight of the handsome, strongly-built figure coming toward them, and several of the girls started forward. Miss Charlton alone did not advance. She was standing by herself a little to one side. Prof. West spoke a few words with the others, and then went straight to her.

"I—I would like to say a few words to you, Miss Charlton," he began. "All this color and gaiety and—fun out on the lawn, where everybody can see, seems," as the color began to rise in her face, "er—very nice. 'Yes,' more decidedly, 'very nice, and I like it. We need more color and fun in our lives, and you have been very good to us in this way since you came. I—I am out here to thank you. My life has been very colorless, so far, and lately I—I have thought—' he was beginning to flounder again at something he saw in her eyes, and added: "I would rather have some of your joyousness than anything else in the world, and—will you be my wife, Margie?"

"Prof. West!" the girl stared and drew back; but he saw it plainly in her eyes now.

"You do love me?" he said eagerly.

"Yes, but I—I am not fit. 'It is I who am not fit. I am too sober and plodding. Will you be my wife?'"

"Of course," simply, "if you want me."

FINE DISPLAY.

A Courier representative dropped in at the Christmas opening of J. E. Naylor & Co., Tuesday and found a magnificent display of holiday goods. The store was beautifully decorated and the stock, a large one, tastily displayed, while every aisle is replete with surprises in new and late articles appropriate for Christmas giving. Old and young were equally delighted as they passed through the labyrinth of toy-land.

Owing to the inclement weather, the opening was not as largely attended as it would have been otherwise, but there were no small number visited this up-to-date store during the opening.

MURDER STILL MYSTERY.

Developments in the Fulton murder mystery—the brutal killing of R. J. Bugg, who was found unconscious in an alley two weeks ago, and later died—are coming slowly. About the only progress made in solving it thus far is the arrest of a negro by the name of Tine Boaz, and Tom Bowlin, a white man. The negro was arrested because he was seen on the evening of the foul deed with the man.

After having been in jail in this city for some time, the negro was taken back to Fulton and held in custody at that place, and before Judge Naylor, Attorneys J. W. Roney and H. T. Smith and Marshal Eaker, the negro made a confession of his knowledge of the affair.

In his confession, Boaz stated that John Pillow, the one-eyed foreman of the street improvement gang, got him to entice Bugg to the viaduct under pretext of important business, and after getting him there, turned to leave when he heard Bugg's body and carry it towards Hurst & Tucker's old livery stable. He admitted that he was paid to entice Bugg to the viaduct on Lake street, and there left him.

Boaz, after his confession, was turned over to Sheriff Seat and committed to the county jail in this city.

Judge Naylor at once issued warrants for the three men. Tom Bowlin one of the men alleged to have been implicated, was arrested Sunday by Officer Carter and carried to jail at Clinton for safe keeping. Bowlin denies any connection with the affair.

The negro's story is doubted by many.

The motive for the killing is the mysterious part of the whole thing. The body was not robbed, hence, this could not have been the cause. It is thought that the murderers were on a drunken spree, and dealt the fatal blow while in that condition. Another theory advanced is that Bugg was about to turn up some bootleggers who owed him money, and a quarrel ensued with fatal results.

While warrants were issued a week ago for the arrest of three men, only one has been served, and the names of the other two have not been given out. If they are apprehended at this late stage of the game, it will be a piece of good luck. The guilty parties have had time to get into Canada or Mexico.

Bugg is said to have been a cousin of Judge Bugg, of the circuit court. He was employed as a laborer with the street gang.

Last Friday a good friend of the Courier called us by phone. Instead of the usual, "please announce to your readers in the free column that I have a bull calf for sale," by a non-subscriber, we suffered one of the most violent shocks of the nervous system ever in our rugged experience, when we put the receiver to our ear. We clung to the desk for support and listened. The voice at the other end of the line in a musical cadence, said: "I am going to make you a present of your Thanksgiving turkey." We would still think it a dream had we not later met Mr. Davis, manager of the Home Telephone Co., who verified his former statement, face to face, and told us to discontinue negotiations for a turkey (which as a matter of fact is a negotiation that never bothers an editor.) That settles it. The world is getting better. With H. J. Kimes keeping us supplied with molasses, Dillon & Cox giving us "comps" to the show and Mr. Davis treating us to a real turkey, we see the dawn of a grander day. The country editor is again coming into his own. To break away from sow bosom and beans and revel in the luxuries of high priced delicacies is enough to make the editorial physiognomy crack open to the full extent of its vastness.

There is always something wholesome and refreshing about a pastoral play with a New England setting that seems to take one back to the good old days down on the farm where happiness seemed to reign supreme. The very thought of these days makes one's childhood heart beat with pleasant memories. If the reader of this article remembers his boyhood days on the farm, he can live them all over again on next Wednesday evening at the Lyric Theatre, when "Meadow-Brook Farm," W. F. Mann's newest play of New England life, will be produced. Loy Streeter has been especially engaged for the part of "Silas Holden." The supporting company has been carefully filled to their respective parts.

WISDOM.

To the gay young man it means whatever is forbidden in life.

To the college professor it means whatever is contained in books.

To the young man it means what he has just acquired at college.

To the girl it means Harry or Jim or Arthur, or whatever his name is.

To the old man it means knowing things before it is too late to do them.

To the voting public it means the six-syllabled words that the candidate has just fed them.

Wisdom is a variable term. To the boy it means a knowledge of the batting averages of every big league baseball player.

To the woman it means knowledge just what the children are going to have next and how to cure it.—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

WILL SHE CONFESS?

You couldn't get a girl to confess it, but the man she most admires is often—

He whose ideas never coincide with her own.

He who tells her point blank that he hates to see powder on her face.

He who never says that some other girl looks pretty.

He who never appears interested when she airs her little tribulations.

Hickman is just forty-five years behind the times in the matter of street lights. Can anybody say why we have no arc lights? Hickman is big enough, able enough and the light plant has capacity enough, but it looks like we haven't enterprise enough. Think of a town the size of this being lighted with these little 2x4 Jimmies of about 3 candle power. Hickman would look like a hummer if she was lit up good.

ABE LINCOLN'S CREED.

Those who are giving much time, thought and study to what are known as new and old religions, will find much of interest and worthy of consideration in what has come to be known as Lincoln's Creed. Like many of the great man's utterances, its simple, forceful language commands attention. He said:

"I have never united myself to any church, because I have found difficulty giving my assent, without mental reservation, to the long complicated statements which characterize their Articles of Belief and Confessions of Faith. Whenever any church will inscribe over its altar, as its sole qualification for membership, the Savior's condensed statements of the substance of both law and gospel, 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself,' that church will I join with all my heart and all my soul."

LUTHER DODSON DEAD.

Luther Dodson, age 22, and a well known young man of West Hickman, was called to the great beyond, Sunday morning, after one week's illness. The cause of death is said to have been some kind of brain trouble.

Deceased is survived by a wife, formerly Miss Kate Barnes, to whom he was married about eight months ago. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Dodson, of West Hickman, also survive him, besides four brothers—John, Virgil, Augustus and Cecil.

Luther was born and reared in the Brownsville neighborhood, near this city. He was a member of the Methodist church, and Elm Camp No. 3, W. O. W., in which he carried $2,000 insurance.

Funeral services were conducted at Brownsville Chapel Monday, by Rev. Matheny, after which the remains were buried with Woodmen ceremonies.

His reputation was that of a good, clean young man, and he possessed many friends who will be grieved to learn of his untimely death. The relatives have the sympathy of the entire community.

MADE UP OF GREED.

Creed of Mail Order Houses as interpreted by a Country Editor.

These commandments make up the catalogue of the mail order house. They were not written on stone by Moses, but they are thoroughly understood and frequently bumped into by anyone who deals with the catalogue mail order concern, and thoroughly indicate the business side of these concerns.

1. You shall sell your farm produce for cash wherever you can, but not to us. We do not buy from you.

2. You shall believe our statements and buy all you need from us because we want to be good to you, although we are not acquainted with you.

3. You shall send in the money in advance to give us a chance to get the goods from the factory with your money, meanwhile you will have to wait patiently a few weeks because that is our business method.

4. You shall buy your church bells and interior church fixtures from us and forward the money in advance, for that is our business method.

5. You shall collect from the business men in your vicinity as much money as you can for the benefit of your churches. Although we get more money from you than they do, still it is against our rules to donate money for building country churches.

6. You shall buy your tools from us and be your own mechanic in order to drive the mechanic from your vicinity for we wish it so.

7. You will induce your neighbor to buy everything from us, as we have room for more money.

8. You shall often look at the beautiful pictures in our catalogue so your wishes will increase and you will send in a big order, although you are not in immediate need of the goods; otherwise you might have some money left to buy necessary goods from your local merchants.

9. You shall have the mechanics that repair the goods you buy from us book the bill, so that you can send the money for his labor to us for new goods, otherwise he will not notice our influence.

10. You shall believe us in preference to your local dealers.

11. You shall, in case of accident, sickness or need, apply to local dealers for aid and credit, as we do not know you.

Foreigners in Circus Business.

"The circus used to be an American institution," remarked an old-time circus man the other day. "But things have changed. I went into the dressing-room of a show and nearly all of the performers are foreigners. There are few good American circus performers any more. There are no performers such as we used to have. Old 'Bob' Stickney was there. He does a 'manage act' with a team of horses, even though he's 62 years old now. He used to be the best bareback rider on the road, outside of 'Jimmy' Robinson. But there are mighty few of the old-timers left, and there never will be any as good."—New York Tribune.

The Strongest and Longest WEARING SHOE

In the World

The "Stronger-Than-The-Law" is made in one of eleven large specialty factories by Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co., of St. Louis, Mo. The Workmen in this factory know that the "Stronger-Than-The-Law" is, and must be, the best work shoe on earth.

Only the toughest and strongest chrome tanned leather is used in the construction of this unequalled work shoe. This leather is infused with oil, which makes it soft and pliant, and as nearly waterproof as leather can be made. You will find that the fibre in this chrome calf leather is very similar to a piece of woven cloth.

There is no shoe on earth which fills every demand for a work shoe as well as the "Stronger-Than-The-Law."

The genuine "Stronger-Than-The-Law" shoe has the Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co's "Star" trade mark on the heel, which is a guarantee backed by a paid-up capital of $3,750,000.00, that it is honestly constructed of solid leather.

All good articles are always imitated, and so many other manufacturers are trying to imitate this shoe—trying to make a shoe as good. Some have gone so far as to select a name as much like "Stronger-Than-The-Law" as possible, but why buy an imitation when you can buy the original "Stronger-Than-The-Law," which wears from eight to twenty-four months?

We show a complete line in four heights. The prices are very reasonable, considering the service you get.

For Sprains

Sloan's Liniment is the best remedy for sprains and bruises. It quiets the pain at once, and can be applied to the tenderest part without hurting because it doesn't need to be rubbed—all you have to do is to lay it on lightly. It is a powerful preparation and penetrates instantly—relieves any inflammation and congestion, and reduces the swelling.

Here's the Proof.

Mr. L. ROLAND, Bishop of Scranton, Pa. says:—"On the 7th of this present month, as I was leaving the building at noon for lunch, I slipped and fell, spraining my wrist. I returned in the afternoon, and at four o'clock I could not hold a pencil in my hand. I returned home later and purchased a bottle of and used it five or six times before I went to bed, and the next day I was able to go to work and use my hand as usual."

Sloan's Liniment

Sloan's Liniment is an excellent anti-septic and germ killer—heals cuts, burns, wounds and contusions, and will draw the poison from sting of poisonous insects.

Managers Dillon & Cox announce Thursday night, Nov. 11th, as the date that has been arranged for the appearance of the distinguished young artist, May Stewart, which they have secured on an unusually large guarantee.

Miss Stewart is now recognized as the coming Shakespearean woman of the English-speaking stage and it is a treat to the theatre-goers of Hickman to have the opportunity of seeing a star of such note without having to pay railroad fare.

The company supporting Miss Stewart is headed by the eminent Shakespearean actor, Joseph DeGrasse, who has been starring for the past five years in Shakespearean roles and is regarded as one of the most prominent actors of the day in his line.

Chas. J. Conrad and Joseph Lehman will be seen in Miss Stewart's company. Mr. Lehman was with Harry Carson Clarke for two seasons. Mr. Conrad was in leads with Creston Clarke and two seasons at the head of his own company. Other members are said to be up to all requirements.

The offering will be an elaborate production of Shakespeare's greatest pastoral comedy—"As You Like It," and the scenery and costumes used in this production are said to be very beautiful—Miss Stewart will wear one or two gowns during the evening valued at something like $1,000 each.

SEPTIC TANK FOR CREAMERY

Construction of Cistern or Basin for Carrying Off Sewage Without Any Bad Odor.

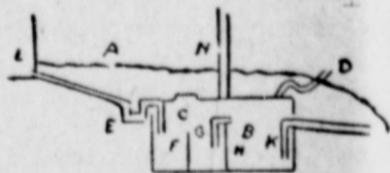

The following is a brief description of the construction and use of the septic tank, and the statements as to its advantages over the open drainage are made by those who advocate its use, says a writer in Hoard's Dairyman.

The outline of the septic tank is shown in the accompanying drawing and the different departments are designated by letter.

The tank is located in the ground and well protected from frost by a covering of earth or other material, and may be built of brick, stone or cement with capacity sufficient to hold all of one day's waste in the first division, C.

In creamery work there is usually a large amount of water, that has been used for rinsing vessels, cooling cream, etc., that contains but a small amount of impurity and such water may be allowed to run away without going through the tank, only the impure water being treated.

The cut shows the drain and trap, E, coming from the creamery, L. The pipe contains a trap to prevent any offensive gas passing up from the drain to the creamery.

The waste flows into C, where a rapid fermentation is immediately set up with formation of a large amount of offensive gas. In consequence, the tank must be tight and supplied with an air pipe, M, sufficiently long to rise above the roof of the creamery and carry away all offensive odors.

The section of the tank, C, is divided by a partition, F, coming to within a foot of the water line. This forms a chamber that will catch and hold the greater part of the solid matter that comes to the tank until it is decomposed and washed away in a soluble form.

When the second day's waste flows into the tank, the partially decomposed sewage passes into B through the pipe, G, where the purification is completed by further fermentation.

The discharge pipe, G, draws the liquid from the middle portion, thus leaving the sediment at the bottom, and the floating matter in C for further action.

The drain, K, also acts in like manner, drawing off only the clear waste from the middle of section B. The outside end of the drain should be lower than the end in the tank so as to act as a syphon and flush the drain tiles, into which the waste water is led.

If possible, the waste should be discharged into a six-inch drain tile laid underground, and sufficiently long to carry the waste away from the creamery.

If the tank is properly built and operated, the waste water should not cause any nuisance if discharged into an open drain.

PROPER COOLING OF MILK.

Danish Creamery Men Agitating for Water Tanks to Set the Cans for Moderating.

There is quite an agitation among the Danish creamery men to encourage the milk producers to have water tanks made through which the water used for the stock is pumped, in which the cans of milk are set for cooling.

This old American scheme is no doubt a great improvement over letting the cans take care of themselves, but it would seem that, while one is about it, it would be as well to secure one of the many excellent tubular or other milk coolers whereby the milk is cooled virtually instantaneously to within two or three degrees of the water used.

If the water pump is set going, be it by hand or power, when milking is commenced, a far better result is obtained than when the cans are set in a tank, where the cooling is much slower, even if the milk is stirred occasionally, which is but seldom done.

Of course it is desirable to have a tank with cold water in which to place the cans when cooled, but as the pump has to be used anyhow this requires but little extra work.

The campaign liar can now take a rest. His calling has gone upon the shelf for the time being, at least.

ED DEAL'S NEW PLAN.

Hon. E. P. Deal, of Mississippi county, is the originator of a new scheme, and much cheaper, too, for digging ditches. Sticks of dynamite are put into the ground the depth the ditch is wanted. They are set about three feet apart and can extend as far as the ditch is wanted in length, and when all are placed they are set off at once. The dirt is blown out on each side for about three feet, and in depth as low as the dynamite is placed. This is a much quicker way to dig a ditch and a great deal cheaper than spade and shovel.—Benton Democrat.

The Farmers Gin & Grain Co. is in the market EVERY DAY, except Sunday, for cotton and corn, at the market prices.

One of the best methods of keeping the poultry house warm in winter at small cost, is to keep the floor littered with dirt, cut straw, hay or leaves to the depth of from three to six inches. This protects against loss of heat and prevents cold currents from below, and may also be used to scatter the grain in to keep the fowls active.

LARGEST PAPER IN WESTERN KENTUCKY

HICKMAN, FULTON COUNTY, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1909.

WHOLE NO. 2473
ESTABLISHED IN THE YEAR 1850

THE TREND OF THE TIMES

Give C. H. Moore a share of your wool business.

Oce Harris, of the Hickman Drug Co., left Thursday night for Paris, Tenn., to visit his father. He will be gone about 10 days.

W. B. Hughes, agent for the Three Lumber Co., of Memphis, and who looks after 3,000 acres of the company's land in Mississippi county, is a pleasant caller at this office
Friday.

The Union City Bank & Trust Co.
and the First National Bank, both of Union City, have been consolidated.
Recent business disturbances in this city, is advanced as the reason by one of their local papers.

A Houston, Texas, paper tells of a young woman out there which, on average, weigh 80 pounds. What do our Missouri friends think of it? A Kentuckian would guess that somebody fooled the editor with a lie.

Bailey Huddleston, editor of the Hickman Commercial and one of the commissioners of the county, was here on business, Friday. While down, he visited the Courier office enough to permit an exchange of sympathy.

Kentucky's corn crop is officially estimated at 113,000,000 bushels which places this state at the head of states in the Mississippi. Last year's crop was but 85,000,000 bushels and the highest yield ever was that of 1896, when 105,000,000 bushels were produced. This year's Kentucky crop at current prices is estimated at over $1,000,000.

With Pres. Taft declaring himself entirely in favor of a bond issue for the development of the country's land waterways and the Governors of twenty-one states voicing assurance of their hearty sympathy with the movement for such improvement, the first day of the Lakes-to-the-Gulf Waterways convention at New Orleans was characterized by much enthusiasm.

A Concordia, Ky., man wrote the Courier-Journal as follows: "We recently shipped some beef hides to market. When we got returns, the dealer said on account of the recent tariff, hides have declined.
"Next day we received from our man notice that on account of the recent tariff shoes had advanced.
"The next day a shoe drummer came along. I asked him how is it at the recent tariff has lowered the price of hides and advanced the price of shoes. He says that is a question for the politicians to answer."—Commoner.

Here is another special from Tippicanville, Tenn., regarding the new proposition: "Some of the officials of the Dyersburg Northern Railroad Company are here to complete plans that will lead to the extension of the road. This is a short line running from Dyersburg to Tipton ville, and has been in operation a little more than two years. It has recently been purchased from the original company, and under the new management it is almost certain that it will be extended at least as far as Hickman, Ky., the coming year. It has already been a great factor in the development of Lake county, and will be more so when it is completed. It runs through one of the finest farming and timber sections of West Tennessee. There has recently been added another passenger train, and when the road is completed the traffic, both passenger and freight, will be very heavy. The company owns the big oil mill at Tiptonville, which is running both day and night."

Hickman merchants are beginning to display their holiday goods, which is another sure sign that Christmas is not a great way off.

Rev. C. S. Matthews, of Kenton, Tenn., will preach and lecture at the Baptist church, Monday night, Nov.
15th. All are cordially invited to attend.

The returns from Hickman county in the legislative race gives F. S.
Moore, Democrat, 691 votes, and Ed
Jones, Republican, 524. For better roads, they voted like this—for them 205, against them, 462.

On the face of the returns the next legislature of Kentucky will be safely Democratic, standing 26 Democrats to 12 Republicans in the Senate, and 66 Democrats to 27 Republicans in the House, with four districts yet to be decided.

It is said that the municipal contest in New York cost the contestants from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000.
While these figures are no doubt an exaggeration of the true ones, it can be accepted as proportionally as near the facts. What a profit such races are to the independent voters.

On October 22 it was calculated that just one-half of the work on the Panama Canal had been completed.
This work added to what the French had done since 1882 makes the canal two-thirds finished. The greater part of the remaining work is in the great Culebra Cut, where fifty steam shovels and fifty trains are at work.

J. A. Killon, of Fremont, informs us that he has a crop of rye sown Sept. 2, which is now waist high in some places and all headed out. This is one of the unusual occurrences in farming in this vicinity, something entirely new in the growing of rye.
Mr. Killon is somewhat at loss as to how to save this crop, but will undertake to do so by grazing it.—Union City Commercial.

If you should write a check for less than $1 after January 1, 1910, you will subject yourself to a possibility of a fine of $500, or being imprisoned for six months in jail. Protests by the hundreds are being filed by merchants, retail houses of all kinds, especially those doing mail order business, business men in general, against section 178 of the penal law, which was approved March 4, 1909, and which provides that no person shall make, issue or pay out any note, check, memorandum, token or other obligation for a sum less than $1.00, intended to circulate as money or to be received or used in lieu of lawful money of the United States.

I'd rather be a country editor and chase around the news, before I'd be a millionaire with wealth I could not use. I'd rather be a printer with patches on my breeches, than be a master of finance, with all my mind on riches. I'd rather eat my modest meal, digest the same with ease, than to sit down to a royal feast with a stomach-ache like John D's.
To romp, frolic with my kids around our cheerful hearth, with their mother for the audience to help enjoy the mirth, is better than to move about in high society, where dress and jewels make life a mockery. 'Tis true, the printer's cash gets short and duns come in a hurry, but the happy fellow does not fret—he lets the dinner worry. He always has a conscience clear, a disposition sunny; he knows that life has always joy beside the chase for money. For the molder of opinion is a happier man by far, than the man who owns a palace, a yacht and a private car.—The Luzelle Weekly Squirt.

SAYING "GRACE."

We know a pious old farmer, living south of Hickman, who has the habit of gazing at the rafters in his dining room when he says grace. One day while so engaged he forgot himself and his grace sounded something like this:

"We thank Thee, Lord, for this food and—by Heck! there's that darned gimlet I bought from Will Johnston last Spring and haven't seen since. I'll have Jim get up there and get it. Thou hast been gracious to us, O Lord, and again we thank Thee. Amen."

NEXT REUNION.

April 26, 27 and 28 has been agreed upon as the date for holding the next reunion of Confederate veterans in Mobile, Ala. Nearly all of the reunions have been held in the month of June, when summer heat prevails, and earlier dates were chosen by the committee this time in order that the old Confederate veterans may not suffer from the heat during their annual meeting in 1910.

Three Tennessee newspapers, the Troy News Banner, the Obion Democrat and the Union City Democrat have consolidated and the successor, the Union City Daily Democrat, will be published at Union City. This aggregation of brains and vim ought to get results.

The Fulton Leader says that the contract for grading the Dyersburg Northern Railroad from Tiptonville to Hickman has been let to Little, the street contractor.

A rumor that former President, Theodore Roosevelt had been killed on his hunting trip in Africa was afloat here Friday but diligent search failed to discover the slightest foundation for it.

A dispatch from Philadelphia, Pa., of the 5th inst. says: After Mrs. Mary Schneider, age 18, had committed suicide with carbolic acid, her baby, a healthy girl, was born in the hospital where the woman had been taken. The physicians performed a caesarian operation.

Obion, Tenn., is getting a hump on herself. Their Board of Aldermen passed an ordinance to vote on a proposition of issuing bonds, as authorized by the last legislature. The bonds are $30,000 for electric lights and waterworks; $15,000 for streets and sidewalks; and $10,000 to be used for school purposes.

J. S. Shaw, a merchant of Samberg, lost a pocket book Sunday while on his way to Union City, containing between $350 and $400. The pocket book was found later, but the money was missing. Evidently some one had found the pocket book, took the money and went his way, having no further use for the pocket book.

At 3 o'clock Saturday morning at his home in Hazel, Ky., occurred the death of J. B. Dalton, aged 80 years. The deceased had been ill for about ten days of the infirmities of old age and the end was no surprise. The dead man is survived by his wife and a number of children, among them being T. D. Dalton, of Fulton, and Mrs. R. M. Dennis, of Hickman.

Cotton is a freakish production. Every planter may plan for and plant more acres than he did the year previous and then come out with fewer pounds and bales. It is strictly a weather condition crop at the proper seasons, and without this acres don't count. This is especially true of the Fulton county crop this year, though high prices have made up in a measure for the shortness of the yield.

The vote on the good roads amendment to the constitution is a disappointment to those who are interested in the betterment of Kentucky's highways. A woeful lack of interest has been shown in many localities of which better things might have been expected. There seems to be a bare chance that the amendment has been adopted, but if such proves to be the case it will be by a close margin.

McGee near the scene of the accident, and later went to the home of her aunt, Mrs. Met Lunsford.

JOHN HOLCOMBE CAUGHT.

John Holcombe, the man who knocked L. W. Whitaker in the head with a piece of timber two weeks ago and made his escape, was caught at Mayfield, Tuesday, and brought to Hickman by Deputy Sheriff Galloway. In default of a small bond, he was placed in jail to await his preliminary trial, which will be had before Judge Naylor, Friday.

As heretofore stated, both were employed at the Mengel Box factory. It is untrue that the men had trouble over a crack-a-lo game.

Mr. Whitaker tells a Courier reporter that he was not even acquainted with his assailant. That Ollie Edmonds, foreman of the department in which the two men work, asked Whitaker to loan him three dollars, which he did. Later Holcombe, who had seen Whitaker produce a roll of bills, came up and asked Whitaker to loan him one dollar, as he wanted to order some liquor. Whitaker told Holcombe that he did not have one dollar in change. The only evidence of anger shown by Holcombe was the words, "you could get the change if you wanted to. You'll be sorry that you did not let me have it." The noon hour came and passed. Just as Whitaker went to the clock to punch in and go to work again, he was struck from behind on the head, the blow rendering him unconscious for several hours. Doctors doubted his recovery very much, but he is up again after being in bed two weeks.

Holcombe is about 20 years old, and came here from Graves county.

LAKE SUIT FILED.

Suit was filed Monday afternoon by the State of Tennessee on the relation of Charles T. Cates, attorney-general, and J. D. Caldwell, district attorney for the Fourteenth judicial circuit, against the West Tennessee Land Company, W. M. Wilson and heirs of N. A. Patterson. This suit was brought for the purpose of declaring the charter of the land company void, enjoining the land company from exercising any control or ownership over Reelfoot Lake, and declaring all outstanding titles void, and to declare the lake to be a public fish and game reserve, under the control of the state.

N. Holcombe was in Woodland Mill Sunday.

W. F. Mann brings to the Lyric Theatre on next Wednesday evening, his newest success "Meadow-Brook Farm." As the title implies, it is a pastoral play for which the author, L. B. Parker, has found a most beautiful setting at the foot of the Catalina Hills of New Hampshire. In the construction of the play, the author has hewn close to the lines of nature. The character of "Silas Holden," the good natured owner of "Meadow-Brook Farm" will be in the hands of Lou Streeter, who has been especially engaged for the part.

Samuel A. Norman, of Mayfield, a traveling salesman, filed petition in bankruptcy, in the United States court Wednesday afternoon, listing liabilities at $199,522.53. His assets are $506 and 75 shares of stock in the Mayfield Woolen Mills. It is the largest petition filed in this court in many months.

We know when November arrives that winter is not far off. There'll be a number of very nice days this month, and advantage should be taken of good weather for repairing the houses and barns—painting, whitewashing or whatever work might be necessary before real winter comes.

Such a reversal of politics in Kentucky as took place Tuesday is unprecedented in the history of the state, says the Courier Journal. Democrats won in counties that have been considered for years bulwarks of Republicanism.

GOV. WILLSON WRITES.

The following letter was received by C. L. Walker, President of the Commercial Club, from Gov. A. E. Willson. It is self explanatory:

"I have just received two excel- lent photographs of the exercises at Hickman. The pictures are very in- teresting to me, and I wish to com- pliment you on the most excellent ar- rangement made at Hickman, and on the magnificent turn-out to greet the President. I had a very hard time personally. I had intended to welcome the President at ease, but was urged to write something, and then forgot to use my glasses and left un- said the things I most wished to say, and really struggled with the matter until I threw the paper away and attended to business in the usual man- ner; but if the Governor's part was not all that it ought to be, the part which the people of Hickman had in this matter is a great honor to them and was a credit to the State of Kentucky, and I wish to give my warmest congratulations to them on the great public spirit and splendid demonstration given at Mills Point."

—O—

A bunch of sportsmen, "the Blue Wing Club," of Clarksville, Tenn., passed through Hickman yesterday, enroute to the lake for a ten days' stay. Those in the party were Yates Morrow, H. M. Dunlap, J. E. Dunlap, R. J. Pickering, H. M. Caldwell, Dr. Whitworth, Ed Clark, M. H. Randle and W. E. Nelson.

Courier's Home Circle

Old times are sweetest and your old friends the surest.

How easy it is to admire people who agree with us.

Drop the reins of government occasionally and be a child with your children. These movements of sympathy with their delights will deepen your influence more than severe disciplining and be remembered longer.

Happiness and completeness in life cannot be bought. It is a supreme gift, the free reward of character and loving, unselfish service. A constant and ceaseless response to the needs and claims of those about us is simply living in the completeness of life. It is expression, it is joy, it is privilege. It is participation in the higher purposes of the universe. It is spiritual development. Loving outgoing sympathy is simply a divine atmosphere into which it is our higher privilege to enter.

Ten Things Baby Can Do:

It can beat any alarm clock ever invented waking a family up in the morning.

Give it a fair show and it can smash more dishes than the most industrious servant girl in the country.

It can fall down oftener and with less provocation than the most expert tumbler in the circus ring.

It can make more genuine fuss over a simple brass pin than the mother would over a broken back.

It can choke itself black in the face with greater ease than the most accomplished wretch that was ever executed.

It can keep a family in a constant turmoil from morning till night, and from night till morning, without once varying its time and tune.

It can be relied upon to sleep peacefully all day when its father is down town and cry persistently at night when he is particularly sleepy.

It may be the naughtiest, dirtiest, ugliest, most fretful baby in all the world, but you can never make its mother believe it, and you had better not try it.

It can be a model and charming infant when no one is around, but when visitors are present it can exhibit more bad temper than both of its parents together.

It can brighten up a house better than all the furniture ever made; make sweeter music than the finest orchestra ever organized; fill a larger place in its parents' breast than they knew they had, and when it goes away it can cause a greater vacancy and leave a greater blank than all the rest of the world put together.

The Wise Mother.

Your wise mother is not given to worrying over trifles. She does not expect perfection in a day. And she has put from her, as far as the east is from the west, the ghastly possibility of setting vanity up in the room of love. So she does not begin with exhaustive attention to the minutia of etiquette, knowing that way lies the danger of making her boys prigs and her girls self-conscious society misses before they are in their teens. She lays down as the laws of her household the broad principles of respect to elders, reverence for women, kindness for all; and she permeates the home atmosphere with her finest conceptions of the deference and the sympathy due from soul to soul. Her children very early delight to place a chair for grandmother and to save father steps. They learn to be proud of that restraint, which enables them to keep self in the background, and to defer to brother and sister. It never enters their heads that servant are less worthy of respect than other people. They are unabashed in the presence of wealth and power as they are tender toward suffering and poverty. When she teaches them from time to time her code of manners—and she is careful to perfect it according to her best judgment—she teaches it for home use, and it becomes fixed by becoming natural.

The Test of Heroism.

"Here am I; send me." These words mark a turning point in a great career. They were uttered at what is wont to be termed—"the parting of the way." They refer to the hour when an ancient Hebrew, tired of the life which he had been living, and receiving one glimpse of "the heavenly vision" resolved that henceforth existence should be something more than a barren waste. He heard a voice calling him to a new career. He was not told that the new pathway would be always strewn with flowers. He was not promised a perennial greeting of smiling skies. He was simply informed that his hour had come. Was he ready to enlist for the service? Was he ready to take the consequences? Was he ready to pledge unswerving loyalty to a new commander? In his own words we find the answer—

"Here am I; send me."

The old Hebrew never regretted the fact that he answered the call. What visions were vouchsafed him in the after years. Upon his head was placed the circlet of divine prophecy. It was he who told of the coming of the king—"the man of sorrows and acquainted with grief"—whose career, beginning with Bethlehem and ending with Calvary, should eventually redeem the world.

There is not a man or woman now living who may not enjoy similar privilege to that which came to Isaiah of old if, like him, they will consent to respond when the call for service comes. Their vision may not be like his, but it will lift the soul above the things of earth, and show that heroism placed to its sublimest test cannot be tested in vain.

ABOUT THE BLUES.

There are times when the average man has the blues, and then he wants to talk of epitaphs and dead men's bones and to sleep in a charnal house and to ride in a hearse instead of a street-car. With some men the affliction known as the blues is constitutional, holding sway at regular intervals, while others are merely depressed by existing circumstances. Some are born with the blues, some achieve the blues and others have the blues thrust upon them. The man who is naturally despondent is more to be pitied than the man who has inflammatory rheumatism. Though the sun may be shining and the breeze murmuring and the whole earth rejoicing he is still bowed by the weight of the blues. He doesn't know why it is so and he doesn't care much. His highest ambition is to contemplate suicide, and sometimes to practice it. People tell him that it is foolish to be so morbidly sorrowful, and they are doubtless right, but he can't help it, and so he goes along, blue because he has to live, and after a while blue because he has to die.

RAILROAD MAN'S PRAYER.

An old railroad employe was converted at a meeting, and was asked to lead in prayer. He hesitated a moment, then with trembling, but clear, resounding voice he said:

"O Lord, now that I have flagged Thee, lift up my feet from the rough road of life, and plant them safely on the deck of the train of salvation. Let me use the safty lamp known as prudence and make all the couplings in the train with the strong link of love. Let my hand lamp be the Bible. And, Heavenly Father, keep all the switches closed that lead off on sidings, especially those with blind end. O Lord, if it be Thy pleasure, have every semaphore block along the line show the white light of hope, that I may make the run of life without stopping. And, Lord, give us the ten commandments for the schedule. And, when I have finished the run on schedule time and pulled into the great dark station of death, may the Superintendent of the Universe say, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant, come and sign the payroll, and receive your check for eternal happiness.' Amen."

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors called it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science proves catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

BLAMES THE WOMEN.

"The women are more anxious for polygamy than the men are," said Bishop Spalding, of Utah, last week, at a convocation in San Francisco diocese. The Bishop went on to say that polygamy in Utah has more recruits among the women than among the men and that so long as woman suffrage prevailed in that state it would be utterly impossible to establish laws that would result in the abolition of polygamy.

Drugs—Hickman Drug Co.

TO AILING WOMEN.

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many a Sufferer in Hickman.

No woman can be healthy and well if the kidneys are sick. Poisons that pass off in the secretions when the kidneys are well, are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidneys and bladder become inflamed and swollen and worse troubles quickly follow. This is often the true cause of bearing down pains, lameness, backache, sideache, etc. Uric poisoning also causes headaches, dizziness, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills, a remedy that cures sick kidneys. You will get better as the kidneys get better, and health will return when the kidneys are well. Let a Hickman woman tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. R. L. Graves, Shaw Road, Hickman, Ky., says: "I had an attack of kidney trouble which caused my back to become very lame and weak. Headaches were frequent, I felt tired and found it difficult some days to finish my housework. Learning about Doan's Kidney Pills, I went to Helm & Ellison's Drug Store and procured a box. They rid me of the lameness in my back, restored my strength and made it possible for me to do my housework without any inconvenience. I can truly say that Doan's Kidney Pills benefited me more than anything else I ever used."
